

WEALTH AND A TITLE WEDDED

HELEN VIVIAN COULD MARRIED TO LORD DECIES OF ENGLAND.

AN ELABORATE CEREMONY

Was Performed at Four O'clock This Afternoon in St. Bartholomew's Church.—Decorations Were Lavish.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]
New York, Feb. 7.—The old story of American wealth and a foreign title wedded at the altar was re-staged today in the marriage of Miss Helen Vivian Gould, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Jay Gould, and Lord
Decies of England, in St. Bartholomew's Church, before an audience that represented American and English aristocracy, this eighteen-year-old girl and her fiancé of forty-four years were wedded this afternoon at four o'clock.

As is usually the case in international alliances of such prominence today's wedding again demonstrated the world's curiosity of the public and thousands of persons crowded about old St. Bartholomew's to get a glimpse of the bride and the notable in attendance. The services of several hundred policemen were required to keep the streets clear for the endless string of automobiles that deposited the snug little sum of $10,000.

Those who live to follow the elaborate wedding among New York's millions estimate the total cost of Miss Vivian's transformation into Lady Decies at close to seventy-five thousand dollars, to say nothing of the "dot" of several millions that she will take her titled husband. Mrs.
George Jay Gould is nothing if not lavish in her social affairs, and her planning of today's wedding, from first to last, was in utter disregard of cost. The preliminary entertainments the decorations of the church and home, the gifts to the wedding party and the other odds and ends brought the total expenditures up to the proportions of a good sized fortune.

Lord and Lady Decies will go to California on their honeymoon. They will return to New York for a brief stay before sailing for England where Lady Decies plans a social career of the greatest prominence.
The great disparity in the ages of Lord and Lady Decies added a note of interest to their wedding. Lord Decies, whose full name is John Granville Hope de la Poer Beresford, Harden Decies, of County Waterford, Ireland, first met Miss Gould while he was exhibiting horses at the New York show several years ago. She was then in short dresses, but it was seen at the outset that he was greatly interested in the child, as she then was.

Lord Decies who is only two years younger than his father-in-law, has seen much service as a soldier having been in the Boer campaign. Being an engaging conversationalist it was sug-

in City Limits.
[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Fond du Lac, Feb. 7.—The common council will tonight consider the passage of a resolution controlling and regulating the handling of dynamite and other explosives inside the city limits. At the present time the local dealers representing the big powder companies are unloading dynamite in the center of the city.

RADIUM BUSINESS GOOD LAST YEAR

Nearly Two Grams Of Mineral Sold
For $153,000 By Bank Of Radium
Last Year.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Paris, Feb. 7.—The radium business flourished in 1910. The Bank of Radium sold $153,000 worth of nearly two grams—1.92, to be exact. Of this, $14,000 worth went for commercial purposes, the rest for medical.
The entire radium output was produced by the single factory, at Nogent-sur-Marne. Even a bigger business is anticipated for 1911.

day on the question of Galesburg adopting the commission form of government. Friends of the movement, it is said, admit their defeat.

TENTH ANNIVERSARY OF WEDDING OF THE QUEEN OF THE NETHERLANDS

Display Of Flags In Every Town And
Hamlet Of Tiny Kingdom Marks
The Celebration Of Events.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

The Hague, Feb. 7.—Flags were displayed in every town and village of Holland today in celebration of the tenth wedding anniversary of Queen Wilhelmina and the prince consort.
The queen was married to Prince
Henry of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, Feb. 7, 1901. She was then twenty-five years of age and he was twenty-five.
On April 23, 1909, the happiness of the royal couple was made by the arrival of a baby princess, who was christened Juliana Louise Emma Marie Wilhelmina, Princess of Orange.
The joy of the queen and prince consort over the birth of the princess was shared by all the people of the Netherlands as it provided a direct heir to the throne and thereby greatly enhanced the chances of the country for continued independence.

SALARY INCREASE BILL PRESENTED

ONLY A SHORT SESSION BUT MUCH OF IMPORTANCE
DONE.

NEW BILLS INTRODUCED

Penalty for Shooting Deer Hunters—
Bill That Refers to Railroad Trains.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Madison, Feb. 7.—The senate had only a short session today, receiving but seven new bills. Senator Gaylord's measure providing for a constitutional amendment increasing the annual salary of members of the legislature from $500 to $1,500 created a stir when introduced. Other measures were of minor importance.

A spirited discussion relating to the St. Louis bill relating to non-union judicial and school elections in Milwaukee prevailed throughout the session of the assembly today. Nearly seventy bills were, however, introduced before this body.

Assemblyman Draper of Chilesville introduced a bill making it a felony for any person maiming and shooting another for a deer during the open hunting season. The measure provides a penalty of imprisonment for wounding a deer hunter and imposes a charge of manslaughter in case of death.

Assemblyman Hull of Black River Falls introduced a measure compelling railroad companies to equalize their through and local service. The bill requires the same number of local trains as there are through trains on any particular line or division.

NO MORE FIGHTING FOR SEVERAL DAYS

Federal Troops Are Marching to Protect Juarez and Insurgents Are Marching South.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

El Paso, Feb. 7.—There is little chance of any fighting near Juarez for some days to come, if at all. Insurgent troops under General Orozco are marching south. Rumors say Orozco plans to meet the federal forces under General Navarro now marching to reinforce Juarez. Federal sympathizers say he is fleeing to save his skin.
People who fled last week are rapidly returning and the city is en fête today in celebrating the insurgent flight.

A report here this afternoon brought by men coming in from San Casas Grande that Gen. Blanco's insurgents have attacked the 14th federal infantry, which was being rushed to reinforce the garrison at Casas Grande and that 3000 were killed. Only fifty of the federal troops are reported to have reached Casas Grande. All wires are down and efforts to confirm their report are useless. 1000 federal troops left Chihuahua for Juarez today.

CONFESSION MAY CLEAR UP CRIME

Railway Employee Admits He Killed
Captain Of Dragoons and Removes Suspicion From Officers.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Berlin, Feb. 7.—The confession of an employee on the railway near Hanover promises to clear up the mystery of a murder which for months was the principal pre-occupation of German public opinion. On January 21, 1901, Captain von Kroschke of the 11th Dragoons, who was something of a martinet and consequently not popular with his men, was exercising his squadron in the Hippodrome at Gumbinnen when a shot was heard, and he fell from his horse dead. The bullet had struck him in the heart. A still smoking carbine was found outside the palace at the Hippodrome.
Suspects a hole through which it had evidently been fired. The murderer, who, it was assumed from the outset,
must be a man from the regiment, remained to mingle with his comrades before anyone could notice him in suspicious circumstances.

Two non-commissioned officers, Martin and Hinkel, were arrested, but though in one of the four trials that ensued the former was sentenced to death, both were finally acquitted, and the affair was relegated to the storehouse of insoluble mysteries. The man who has confessed, Fischer by name, was in the 11th Dragoons at the time of the crime, but it remains to be seen whether he actually did the deed. His admissions were made while he was under the influence of Opium, and on regarding sobriety he was very anxious to recall them. The motives, however, and so spoiled his chance of being promoted non-commissioned officer.

UNFAVORABLE TO RECIPROCITY LAW

Wisconsin Assembly Opposed to Agricultural Districts Are Against Taft's Reciprocity Agreement.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Madison, Feb. 7.—That President Taft's reciprocity agreement with Canada is about to receive a severe slap from the Wisconsin legislature is more than evident here today. Representatives of the agricultural districts who returned last night for this week's session, last night held a long and earnest discussion and the reciprocity measure, in search of opinions, was voted a decided detriment to the Wisconsin farmer, should it pass. Some action is looked for in the assembly this week.

JACKPOT BLAMED FOR CORRUPTION

DISCUSSION OF ILLINOIS CASE IN THE SENATE TAKES UP THEIR TIME.

LORIMER IS EXONERATED

Speakers All Held Present Occupant
Of Seat Blameless Of the Purchasing Of Any Votes.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—The Illinois legislative "jackpot" was today held by Senator Jones of Washington, as responsible for any corruption that may have occurred in connection with the election of Sen.
Lorimer.

The exonerated Sen. Lorimer from participating in the alleged frauds in the senatorial election but at the same time opposed Sen. Lorimer's retention of seat on the ground that some votes cast for him had been procured by fraud.

Contentending it had not been exclusively shown that even one corruptly influenced vote had been cast for Sen. Lorimer in the Illinois legislature, Sen. Fletcher of Florida, a member of committee on privileges and elections, today addressed the Senate in support of the committee's report and exonerating Lorimer.

Sen. Fletcher denied that "four members of the legislature had testified to receiving money as a consideration for their votes," denounced Legislature White as "the limit" in many disreputable directions and stoutly defended Sen. Lorimer against the charge of any knowledge of bribery.

FEDERAL SOLDIERS SHOT AT RED CROSS ON BATTLEFIELD

Investigation Of Action of Mexican Regulars Is to be Taken by State Department.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—The report that Mexican Federal troops had fired upon an American under the Red Cross flag during the consequence of the Juarez Sunday will be investigated by American Ambassador Wilson at Mexico City upon instructions from the state department.

It is declared that Dr. Bush, of El Paso, while attending Rebel wounded under the banner of the Red Cross, was fired upon four times by Federal forces, notwithstanding the fact he had permission of the Federal commander at Juarez to operate on the battlefield.

M'KERROW DEFEATED IN ELECTION TODAY

Charles L. Hill Will Act As New President of State Agricultural Board.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Madison, Feb. 7.—George McKerrow was defeated for re-election as president of the state board of agriculture at the annual meeting of the board here today. He will be succeeded by Charles L. Hill of Rowland who was elected on the first ballot. J. J.
Nelson was elected vice president, while H. W. Rowlands of Geneseo, a prominent dairyman, succeeded John M. True, who had held the office for thirteen years. Mr. True tendered his resignation some time ago because of his late election to the state senate.

Similar scenes were enacted at the church home 807 Fifth Ave., where a reception was held immediately following the ceremony.

The full Episcopal service was performed by the Rev. Leighton Parks, rector of St. Bartholomew's, assisted by the Rev. David H. Over. Ten thousand dollars' worth of flowers had turned the interior of the church into a veritable bower, the scene of enchantment being enhanced by a special musical programme, under the direction of Organist Hyde. In addition to the regular choir of St. Bartholomew's there was the boys' choir from the cathedral of St. John the Divine. The soloist for the occasion was Heinrich Martin of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

In summation, the wedding rivaled that of the bride's older sister Majorie, who at the same altar was married to Anthony J. Drexel less than ten months ago.

Miss Gould's attendants were her sister Miss Edith Gould as maid of honor her still smaller sister, Miss Gloria Gould, and Miss Diana Dal-ziel as flower girls while the bridesmaids were Miss Hope Hamilton the bride's cousin; Miss Hannah Hamilton of Philadelphia; Miss Allison Pierce, Miss Louise Grosvenor of Washington, Miss Genevieve Holmes and Miss Helen Chaffin. Lord Alastair Graham, a cousin of Lord Decies, was best man.
The ushers were the Earl Percy Lord Phoenix's Ingramham, Monsieur Robinson, Robert E. Russell, Anthony J.
Drexel, Jr. and Francis W. Crownsfield. The bride was given away by her father.

The wedding gown was of heavy white duchesse satin, in semi-emboi-sied style, heavily embroidered with silver roses. The train was eight yards long. The veil was of real lace. Lady Decies plans to wear her bridal gown at the coronation of King George and at her presentation to the English court in June.

The bridesmaids' gowns were of white chiffon over white satin, trimmed with fascines of sea-green satin ribbon. The hats were of white chif-fon, trimmed with green. The bride's dress was made in Paris, as was the rest of her trousseau, on which was

AN OLD REMEDY

Deaf, Iron and Wine is one of the good old remedies that has outlived a score of patent tonics, reasonable in price, a satisfactory tonic, appetizer and mild stimulant. There is nothing better for that tired, worried, listless feeling or run-down condition of the system after illness of any kind. It tones the whole system, stimulates digestion, gives you appetite, is a good iron tonic for weak, pale children or old people, far more effective than malt extracts or so-called wine of cod liver oil that depend upon their stimulants alone. Deaf, Iron and Wine tones and sustains, it assists nature to recuperate, it's a food to the sick and nursing mothers.

Mr. Pfennig, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist, prepares our Deaf, Iron and Wine. It's always fresh made from the very best extract of beef, wholesome, properly aged, sherry wine and soluble iron.

We don't sell ready-made, hand-made, factory-manufactured Deaf, Iron and Wine. We believe and know that medicine should be compounded only by the experienced and scientifically trained.

Try a bottle of our Deaf, Iron and Wine as made by Mr. Pfennig, 75c a full pint. Note its wholesome taste and invigorating effect. You will be more than satisfied. Get it at the Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee and River Sts. The drug store that makes a specialty of drugs.

VOTED TO REVOKE SALOON LICENSE

Clinton Board Of Trustees Took Action Against Chas. G. Hawley, Proprietor Of Commercial Hotel.

(Special to this Gazette.)

Clinton, Feb. 7.—On the complaint of Alderman W. H. Northrop of the license committee, the village board of trustees at their regular meeting last night voted to revoke the saloon license of Chas. G. Hawley, proprietor of the Commercial Hotel, the hearing will be held Saturday evening next. The complaint alleges several counts of selling liquor to minors, selling after hours and on Sundays.

Mr. Northrop is entitled to the congratulations of all lovers of right and justice in his efforts to have the laws upheld.

Will Case.

Attorney A. A. Cleveland was appointed to take evidence in the will case of Knute Seavers and held court in his office in the Mayhew block last Friday, the case will be tried in Illinois as the property and defendant are in that state. Knute Seavers willed his farm to his son William, providing he move here from Minnesota to the care of his father the balance of his life and that he pay into the estate $12,000.00. The other children object to this and are suing to break the will.

George Able.

The funeral of George Able will be held Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock, Rev. J. A. Collings officiating. Interment will be in the village cemetery. Mr. Able was a 32 degree Mason and the Masons will have charge of the service at the grave. He was born at Spring Prairie, Walworth County, fifty six years ago.

Personal.

O. B. Duxstad had the misfortune to slip and fall yesterday morning and strike his left knee on a small stone very badly injuring the knee cap, which may cause a permanent injury.

Miss Fanny Conley has accepted a position as cashier in Hamilton & Company's store.

OBITUARY.

Richard Morris.

Funeral services for the late Richard Morris will be held from the Oak Hill chapel at half past two o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Rev. J. C. Hazen will officiate.

James Hunter.

Funeral services for the late James Hunter were held this morning at nine o'clock from St. Patrick's church, Father James McGinley officiating. The members of the St. Anthony society of St. Patrick's church, of which the deceased was a member, attended in a body. Floral offerings were many and beautiful. The pall bearers were: Thomas Kelly, Raymond Hayes, Matthew Ryan, Charles Dullin, Frank Viney and Frank Byrne. Interment was in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

Mrs. Patrick McGinley.

Death came to Mrs. Patrick McGinley shortly before eleven o'clock last evening at her home, 723 Prospect avenue, after an illness of some four weeks. Death was the result of the infirmities of old age.

Mrs. McGinley, whose maiden name was Bridget Patten, was born in Ireland in 1836, and while she was still a young girl she came to America where she settled in New York City. In 1854 she was married to Patrick McGinley in that city and in the following year they removed to Janesville where they have since resided.

Mrs. McGinley was a highly respected and faithful member of St. Mary's church for many years. She was a devoted wife and mother and the memory of her beautiful character will be a precious heirloom to her many friends.

Besides her aged husband she leaves to mourn her loss two daughters and three sons: Winifred, Mary, John and Dennis, all of this city; and James of Milwaukee; also five grandchildren. The funeral will be held Thursday morning at nine o'clock from St. Mary's church.

Caleb Truesdell.

Shople, Feb. 7.—Caleb Truesdell passed away at six o'clock yesterday morning at the home of his nephew, Mort Truesdell, at Shople. The deceased was eighty-one years of age and as the result of injuries he received some three weeks ago from a fall on the ice which caused injuries to his side and back as well as internally.

Mr. Truesdell was born in Herkimer county, New York, where he received his early education and training. He removed from his early home about fifty years ago and came to Rock county, settling at Shople where he has since resided with the exception of a short time spent in Janesville. He was of a genial disposition and was well liked by a host of friends. He never married and so he spent the latter years with his nephew in the village of Shople.

He is survived by three brothers, James and Alonzo of Shople, Hiram of Parkersburg, Ia.; and two sisters, Mrs. Anna Holmes of Chicago; Mrs. Malissa Adams of Springfield, Mo. Funeral services will be held from the Methodist church in Shople at two o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

GIVEN FAREWELL PARTY BY THEIR NEIGHBORS SATURDAY

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lyons of the town of Janesville, were pleasantly surprised at their home on Saturday evening, when about sixty friends gathered to tender them a farewell party. The evening was spent in music and dancing with supper, after which Mr. Jay Roberts in behalf of these gathered friends presented Mr. and Mrs. Lyons with a beautiful hand painted picture. Mr. and Mrs. Lyons will move to Janesville, and reside at 215 Linn street.

VISITED TRAINING SCHOOL AT MONROE

Committee Of County Board Spent Day Getting Pointers From Green County Institution.

The special school board composed of Chas. E. More, Magnolia; Earle Cleveland, Deloit; and County Supt. O. D. Antisdel, which was appointed to have the matter of the new county training school for teachers in charge, spent the day today at Monroe, looking over the Green county institution. As the training school at that place has been established for some time, it was thought advisable by these men who are looking after the welfare of Rock County school, to take advantage of the opportunity and get some practical points on the way such an institution is conducted. The committee expected to get a good idea of the course of study which might be incorporated in a training school, and also as to the corp of teachers and the requirements for such positions. Applications are constantly coming in to the county superintendent for places on the instructional force of the new school here and among the applicants are many persons who appear to be of good standing and who now hold responsible positions. This trip to a working example of a training school will without a doubt be of great benefit to the men who have the supervision of the work.

Pay Tributes Today To The Memory Of Dickens

(Special to this Gazette.)

London, Feb. 7.—The burial place of Charles Dickens, in Westminster Abbey, was piled high with floral offerings today in commemoration of the anniversary of his birth. Next year will mark the centennial anniversary of the birth of the famous novelist and already the numerous Dickens societies throughout the United Kingdom are preparing to celebrate the event.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Dan Canbrell, of the town of Rock, a son, Saturday, February 4.

Married in Rockford? It was reported this afternoon that Miss Louisa Schlofstein and George Hessonauer, two well known Janesville young people, were married today in Rockford.

THE MULE IN THE JUG.

An Arab Proverb and the Legend That Gave It Birth.

Who can affirm that the mule entered the jug?

This proverb is frequently quoted to show that, though one may conscientiously believe in a thing which may seem extravagant in itself, it is better not to repeat it from fear of being disbelieved. It arises from the following Arabic legend: An Arab who denied the existence of gull once bought a mule and took it home. When performing his evening ablutions, he saw the mule enter a jug, and this so scared him that he ran shouting to the neighbors and told them what he had seen. They, thinking him mad, endeavored to appease him, but all in vain. He vociferated more and more, so that the authorities sent him to the madhouse. When the doctor came to see him, he repeated the account of what he had seen, whereupon the doctor ordered him to be detained. He continued upon each visit of the doctor to repeat his statement until his friends succeeded in persuading him that if he wished to regain his freedom he must recant. This he did, and the doctor set him at liberty, to the great joy of his family and friends. On making his ablutions as before he again saw the mule, this time peeping out of the jug, but on this occasion he contented himself with remarking to the mule: "Oh, yes, I see you well enough, but who would believe me? And I have had enough of the madhouse." Needless to say that the gull in them had transformed one of themselves into a mule and as such entered the jug.—Calro (Copyright) Spilny.

A ROCKING STONE.

New York's Souvenir of the Remote Glacial Period.

Though tens of thousands of persons yearly see the great rocking stone of Bronx park in New York city, few realize that it is the city's most conspicuous souvenir of the glacial period, when all of this section was covered with an ocean of ice some 1,500 feet thick that was moving slowly toward the south.

That pinkish bit of granite, weighing thirty tons, standing seven and one-half feet above its rocky base, being ten feet broad and eight feet thick, came from the far north, carried in the retreating icy arms of the glacier that swept over the continent down to this latitude, marking its path by depositing great boulders as it moved and leaving scratches on the firm rocks beneath, from the grinding, grinding bits and masses of granite that settled to its base and were pushed along as it moved.

This same boulder left its mark on the bare face of the rocky hill to the north of it, in which lies the crescentic pool. There the scratches are visible today, pointing to where the boulder stands and telling the story of part of its travels.

When the melting ice departed from the great block of granite, it left it standing through the ages a rocking stone so delicately poised that a pressure of fifty pounds exerted on its most northern angle causes its apex to sway north and south about two inches.—New York Herald.

WISCONSIN WEATHER FORECAST.

Unsettled with light snow tonight or Wednesday; warmer tonight.

TO ALL READERS

The Gazette is anxious to bring each of its readers into closer touch with both the newspaper and each other. It would like to have them feel free to send in news items. Notices of parties, personal mentions, happenings in your own community, accidents that may occur—in fact anything that you think would interest other readers. Matters of this nature can be telephoned to the editorial rooms. Call Rock county telephone 82, or Wisconsin phone 77 three rings. Meetings of lodges, church gatherings, and special meetings of clubs it will be necessary to be written out and left at or mailed to the Gazette to avoid mistakes which might otherwise occur. The columns of the paper are also open to communications on subjects of interest. Write your views of affairs, on one side of the paper only. Be sure and sign your name; it will not be published if you do not wish it to; and either leave or mail to the office. Try this system and you will be surprised how much more interesting the reading of the evening paper becomes to you.

THAT STONE PILE.

Whether the county board sees fit or not to install a stone pile and a wood yard in connection with the county jail, will be the idea of the month. Sheriff Hanson, Judge Field and Chief of Police Appleby all agree it would be a most excellent thing for the community. The Herald Daily News takes the matter up and advocates it in the following manner:

"We are inclined to believe with Sheriff Hanson that the stone pile would be a good thing to have in connection with the county jail. There is no reason why men should get themselves 'sent up' with the intention of getting a place to stay and be comfortable, with food and shelter provided at public expense. It would be much better to make these fellows understand that they must work for what they have. The county jail is not intended as an asylum for lazy hoboes, but the figures would seem to show that it is used too much for that very purpose. Let the supervisors put in a stone pile or wood yard and some other kind of labor that will make sojourners at the jail earn their 'keep'."

It is worth considering and the county board should stop and look into it without delaying any other business and its effect would prove a wonderful impetus to the homeless wanderers, beggars and habitual drunks from enjoying a week's rest at the county bastille.

THE HITCHING POST.

One by one the old fashioned customs of by-gone days are forgotten and lost sight of. Old time residents of Janesville tell of the grain and wheat market that used to be held here, relate stories of the rafting of logs down the river. One of the latest of the customs to disappear is the hitching post. Today the farmer driving into the city must tie his team in an alley or drive to a hitch or livery stable to have it cared for. Yet, such developments, we hear, attend the march of civic progress. Like the western agrarian, easterners pause to ask, "Can these things be?" For exact information on that mooted point one might ask the horse if this customary answer were not for once incorrect. "Neigh" could hardly be regarded as affirmation.

Perhaps esthetically inclined citizens acted too arbitrarily in a few towns when they chopped down the hitching posts without consulting the farmers. Needless to relate, they have since replaced them. The farmer is an exceedingly independent person, but amenable to reason. Those around Haverhill and Hutchinson, Kans., doubtless would have been more pliable if told about the plans in advance. But zealous citizens chopped first and explained afterward. Otherwise, the Haverhillans and the Hutchinsonians might have advanced the back alley and side street proposition with reasonable hopes of success.

As modern communities grow, the hitching post appears less and less on the grounds of tradition, beauty and utility. In the larger cities men do not find it necessary to hitch their automobiles, and horses are too few to demand hitching posts. Out in western towns which have but one main street, the story is different, and ideas on civic progress cannot properly be imposed without general consent. If western farmers want hitching posts, they will have them or know the reason why. The hitching post may retreat, but it is not yet in full flight.

The Madison Democrat in extolling the ice industry in Madison lakes makes the statement that much of its product goes to Janesville. Evidently the Democrat does not know that Janesville cuts its own ice and it does not come from any lake polluted with the city's sewage either.

Paris is making an effort to elevate the moral tone of its literature. If it does away with the Latin quarter and some of the other features of life in the French capital what will the writers of the future have to look back upon?

One Chicago candidate for mayor tells his followers to go home and talk it over with their wives. He feels certain that they are with him and in consequence he wants to use their influence. Pretty smooth work.

So senator after senator feels it his duty to rise and denounce Lorimer with the sole idea of seeing his name in print. This is just like Jeff Davis, who says he makes a monkey of himself to please his constituents.

Uncle Sam has decided that the rebel army in Honduras is the army of the country now and will proceed to recognize its leaders in consequence. Evidently General Christmas has at last become a full-fledged general.

Something has happened down in El Paso and that insurgent army that was going to capture Juarez has disappeared into the southland without striking any definite blow for Mexican freedom.

American millions and English titles will again be jeered. The Goulds will have a titled son-in-law, and the titled son-in-law will have his fingers on the Gould millions. Nice thing for America, is it not?

If anyone now doubts the reliability of the ground hog to forecast weather let him take a bark out and wait until the present blanket of beautiful white has become dingy and black from the soft coal.

This is a humane age. Many an autocrat carefully blankets his engine these days where if he was driving a horse he would forget all about the poor beastie.

El Paso is the only American city that offered a genuine revolution as one of the spectacles to be enjoyed by the winter tourists this winter.

The legislators are having a fine time this winter. Madison is gay every two years and some of the legislators would fill a book.

Uncle Walt THE POET PHILOSOPHER (Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams.)

By WALT MASON.

It jarr'd me up like everything, when Nelson met his last defeat. He left the sanatorium for the dug, forsook the elixir's pain to retreat to mingle with a vulgar person, I am told; NELSON and now he has a drinking and heart is sick, his feet are cold. How often, friends, must I explain that men should not forsake their trade? It gives my heart a convulsion, that my fellows are not obeyed. When Battling Nelson for the prize was writing gripping, vital tales, he was a stranger to distress, and happiness was his, in battles. The gems of thought dropped from his pen like diamonds of a ray of sun. He soothed and cheered the souls of men and earned full many a golden coin. That sturdy yeoman, Jeffries, came from rustic scenes and rural trails, from rustic scenes and rural trails, and went to elevate the fighting game, and went to elevate the fighting game. And back home again in splints. And Uncle Joe, the Danville sport, passed up his baseball team this year to practice in congress and cavort, and there he got a wooden car. Friends, Romans, sports and fellow guys! Just watch me, while in truth I vade: The gentleman who's truly wise, will stick like beeswax to his trade!

One on the Hotel Man.

"There is one thing about this place," boasted the hotel proprietor, "and that is we never make any false claims. Anything you see on the menu can be served at once." "That so?" chuckled the humorous guest, as he looked over the much-used card. "Well, bring me some thumbprints."

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THE HAPPIEST PERSON.

I was looking for the happiest person in town. As I walked down to my office a glass cage on wheels, drawn by two fine horses, drove by. The driver on the seat outside looked contented, but the man inside, whom I knew by sight as the traction magnate, looked tired and worn and pitiful. He was not happy. That day I was in the outer office of a great lawyer who had many clerks. I had often heard him in the courts and admired his great ability. He was not only prosperous, but wealthy. While I was there the lawyer's daughter swept into her father's sanctum. The door was ajar, and by and by I heard her voice: "You are just mean and stingy! That cloak costs only $250." He was not the happiest person. Then I looked into the windows of a great retail store. Argosies from across the seas, rich garments, beautiful fabrics, were there. As I looked the owner of the establishment stepped from his automobile and hastily entered. One glance sufficed. There were dark circles under his eyes, and a great frown distorted his face. He was not the one I looked for. All that day I searched in vain. Late at night I passed the theaters. From one of them issued an old man dressed in youthful garments, and he had on his arm his wife. Her opera cloak, flung back, displayed gems of purest rays. And as they waited for their limousine I overheard her say, "I forgot to take my headache tablets, and my head is burning." And he, "Well, whose fault is it?" No, neither of them was the happiest.

And a little farther along I watched a young man in evening clothes who staggered as he walked. His white tie was awry, and his opera hat was shapeless. The hilarious stage of his intoxication was past. His eyes roved like an idiot's. He was white about the lips. No, not he was not the one. And the next morning I renewed my search. There were so few smiling faces! Finally as I passed the little park I saw my old acquaintance, the cripple. "Good morning," he said. "Isn't this a lovely morning? How I do enjoy the sunshine and the grass and the flowers! You know, I can't get around much, but I just sit here and drink in the beauty and the sweet smells." His face beamed. I had found the happiest man in town.

OWEN KILDARE, WRITER, DIES

Novelist, Who Became Insane by Falling Down Stairs, Passes Away at State Hospital.

New York, Feb. 7.—Owen Kildare, the novelist who became violently insane three years ago after falling down the stairs of the Times Square subway station, died at the Manhattan State hospital on Ward's Island. His body was brought here by his former wife, who is now married to Lieutenant Commander Charles A. Adams, U. S. N., retired. Mrs. Adams, in spite of her second marriage, had visited him three times a week during his illness.

THAW'S LAST HOPE IS GONE

Court Dismisses His Appeal Adversely to Contention He Is Being Illegally Held.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 7.—Harry K. Thaw's final hope of being released from Matteawan was dashed when the court of appeals dismissed his appeal from the decision of the appellate division adverse to his contention that he was being illegally detained. Thaw's counsel appeared and stated that he had practically entered into a stipulation with the attorney general to have the case dismissed, and that the state was entitled to the costs.

SMITH VICTOR ON POINTS

Australian Middleweight Defeats Johnny Thompson, the American, at Sydney, N. S. W.

Sydney, N. S. W., Feb. 7.—Dave Smith, the Australian middleweight champion defeated Johnny Thompson, the American pugilist, on points in a twenty-round contest. The battle was hard-fought all the way through. Smith is the new middleweight champion who acquired the title by beating Billy Papke of Kewanee, Ill., on a foul in seven rounds some time ago. Thompson is of Bynamore, Ill.

Boy Kills Sister Instead of Bird.

Imboden, Ark., Feb. 7.—"I am going to shoot a bird," exclaimed the five-year-old son of L. D. Brown, who resides near Walnut Ridge. The lad pointed his father's shotgun at his ten-year-old sister and pulled the trigger. The girl's head was blown off.

When He Needed Company.

"Brother Philander," said the Osborn Farmer's village deacon, "our minister has worked hard and seems discouraged. Isn't there some way we can show our appreciation of his worth and cheer him up?" "Well," replied old Philander, "we might try attending the midweek prayer meeting. That is his holiest hour."

GAS BLAST KILLS TWO

HOTEL IS BLOWN UP AND TWENTY PERSONS INJURED.

Many Are Severely Burned by Flame—Leak in Pipe Is Supposed Cause.

Elgin, Ill., Feb. 7.—In a gas explosion at the Wilbur house at Carpentersville Howard Mann and Adam Oberst were killed and twenty others injured, four fatally. The hotel was wrecked. Carpentersville is a small town six miles north of Elgin. Gas from a leaky main is supposed to have caught fire from a stove. The guests fled in panic from the hotel and there were many narrow escapes. Howard Mann, who was the first victim, had been overcome by the fumes, which filled the house, and a rescue party of neighbors had been formed and was entering the building when the explosion occurred. The detonation was terrific and the air was filled for several seconds with a burst of flame and flying fragments of wood. The house was destroyed, and it was some time before a search of the ruins could begin.

The survivors of those who had formed the rescue party were frightfully burned, and adjoining houses were turned into temporary hospitals, while the injured were attended to by all the physicians who could be summoned. Henry Brech and John Schultz, the latter the owner of the hotel destroyed, were the most seriously burned, and they may die. When a search of the ruins could be made the body of Adam Oberst was found close to that of Howard Mann, the gas repair man, whose life he had sought to save. Several of those who were injured were standing outside the house awaiting the return of the rescue party and were struck by flaming debris when the explosion occurred.

"DOROTHY" SENDS POST CARD

Francis R. Arnold Receives Message From Missing Daughter Saying She Is Safe.

New York, Feb. 7.—A postal card signed "Dorothy," and bearing the message, "Father, I am safe," has been received by Francis R. Arnold, father of Dorothy Arnold, who has been missing since December 12. Mr. Arnold declared, "The handwriting resembles closely that of the missing heiress, but Mr. Arnold is not sure that it is hers. There was no address or date on the postal card, which bore a New York city postmark."

17 HURT IN MOTOR CRASH

Electric Cars Collide Near Peoria, Ill., and Residents of Nearby Towns Are Injured.

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 7.—Seventeen residents of Pekin, Peoria, Eureka and Bloomington were injured last night when two passenger motors on the Peoria electric terminal railway collided on an open switch, at South Bartonville. A broken switch device was the cause. The injured were taken to the hospital at Peoria. The motorists jumped before the contact and, turning, saw their cars a mass of splinters.

OHIO FURNITURE DEALERS CONVENTION

Columbus, O., Feb. 7.—President B. F. Kerr this afternoon called to order the annual convention of the Ohio Retail Furniture Dealers' association, and introduced to the large assemblage the mayor of Columbus, George S. Marshall, who welcomed the members to the city. Mr. Kerr then delivered his address, and the rest of the afternoon was devoted to the reports of officers. This evening there will be a banquet at the Chillicothe hotel, at which the speakers will be Walter D. McKinney of the Columbus chamber of commerce, C. I. Christie of Purdue university and Edward P. Trefz of Chicago. The convention will adjourn Thursday afternoon.

Why He Was Strict.

A farmer in a county in central Pennsylvania has posted his woods against hunters. When asked by a man, who had been reading one of the notices, whether he intended to enforce them strictly, the farmer replied: "Do I? Do I, after my experience of last fall? Peppered my old cow in the face, broke a sheep's leg running! It down a bank, tore the lead pipe out of my spring, stopp'd the water at my house and barn right in corn shuckin', blowed off part of my cow's tail, thinkin' it a squirrel in the bushes, set the woods on fire, so's we had to fight it all night and for a week after, killed my ducks and game rooster, broke down 50 rods of post and rail fence, and then wonder if I mean it when I put up 'Keep Out' notices. Why, mister, no hunters gets in them woods no more, not even if they swear on a stack of Bibles that they want to hunt for a lost child."

INNOCENT OF TIPS.

"Gracious, Uncle Timrod!" exclaimed his fashionable city niece, in the corridor of this big hotel, "why did you remain in the dining room so long after we had dined?" "Well, I'll tell you, Susie," confided the old man, with a broad grin. "The waiter that waited on us kept holding out his hand when I started out every day and of course I had to shake it every time. Wasn't going to let it be said that he had more manners than your Uncle Timrod."

STORM COSTS FIVE LIVES

Chicago Suffers From Blizzard in Crippled Transportation—Financial Loss Put at $1,000,000.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—Chicago's fierce blizzard, which was countrywide and held away for nearly thirty-six hours, claimed a toll of five lives, caused much suffering and entailed a heavy financial loss. The five deaths recorded were traced directly to the storm, while scores of persons were injured seriously. The suffering among the poor, according to the police, was the greatest known in the city during the present winter.

The largest financial loss, which is estimated to reach almost $1,000,000, will be borne by the transportation companies running into the city, the telegraph and telephone companies, commission merchants handling perishable goods and consumers, who, it is said, will be compelled to feel the brunt of an increase in the prices of foodstuffs.

The expense to the city in clearing away the snow and putting the streets in shape for traffic is estimated to be $20,000.

BILLS IN VOTE FRAUD NEAR

Jurors in Danville Probe Decide to Return Preliminary Report and Indictments.

Danville, Ill., Feb. 7.—A preliminary return of true bills by the grand jury investigating Vermillion county's vote frauds is scheduled for tonight or Wednesday, this decision was reached at a meeting of the jurors from which State's Attorney John H. Lewman was excluded. Many of the jurors wish to make a preliminary report and return of indictments in the vote fraud inquiry. This plan is opposed by a faction of the legislative body but it is now certain a preliminary return will be made. That the show of definite results would give an added impetus to the investigation is the opinion of Foreman Woodward. He believes the issue of capsules and bench warrants for the indicted ones would result in many citizens vouchsafing information they are now attempting to conceal.

BANKERS SENT TO PRISON

Officials of American Trust Company of Philadelphia Plead Guilty to Wracking Concern.

Philadelphia, Feb. 7.—Pleading guilty to charges of wrecking the American Trust company of this city Dr. J. Knauer Crawford and Joseph B. Crawford, brothers and vice-president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the institution, were sentenced to three years in the county prison and fined $500 in quarter sessions court. The American Trust company was closed in November 1909.

Corn and Clover Convention.

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 7.—Hundreds of farmers from northern North Dakota and northern Minnesota were here today when the Red River Valley Corn and Clover convention was formally opened. On the program for three days are addresses by such prominent men as Prof. P. G. Holden of the Iowa State Agricultural college, Prof. T. A. Hovstad, state superintendent of farmers' institutes of North Dakota; Prof. Shaw, an agricultural expert in the employ of the Great Northern railway, and leading members of the Farmers' Equity society. In connection with the convention the midwinter fair and the Grand Forks automobile show are being held.

Army Bill Carries $93,578,586.

Washington, Feb. 7.—The army appropriation bill, which was reported to the senate Friday in unfinished form, has been completed. It carries $93,578,586, an increase of $42,200 as it was passed by the house. A saving of $1,761,982 as showing from the amount appropriated for the present fiscal year.

MAN OF HIGH IDEALS.

"So you don't care to encourage that young poet with his ethereal ideas?" interrogated the cigar salesman. "I don't care a continental about his ethereal ideas," growled the groceryman, "as long as they don't cost me anything." "Did they ever cost you anything?" "I should say so! The other day he came in and, raising his right hand, struck a dramatic attitude and said, 'I love everything that's good.' Then with his left hand he helped himself to the candied citron and the 40 cent almonds. I don't doubt that he likes things that are good, but blamed if he's going to make this a supply station."

A Nefarious Plot.

Sam—Er yo's gwine ter be de candidate, colonel, I kin put yo' on ter some queer goin's on 'ob de folks what's ag'in yo'!" The Colonel—Indeed? Sam—Yes, sah; dey's gittin' up a regular 'spritry' to stop yonah people from stufin' de ballot boxes.

Surprising.

"I saw an astonishing thing the other day." "What was it?" "Smythe was walking on the street just ahead of me and he took off his hat to a lady who spoke to him." "Was that surprising?" "Of course it was. The lady was his wife."

A Considerate Reporter.

When the Maine was blown up the wife of Lieutenant Commander Walwright was at her home in Washington. She had heard nothing of the news when she was awakened about 4 o'clock in the morning by a violent knocking at the door of her house. Finally Mrs. Walwright rose and looked out of the window, asking what was the matter. A voice called out, "Are you the wife of Lieutenant Commander Walwright?" "Yes. What do you want?" "The Maine has been totally destroyed. We are reporters and wish for some information about Mr. Walwright." Only this and nothing more. The shock caused the poor lady to fall in a dead faint, from which she did not rally for several hours, and, fortunately for her, it was then known her husband was not among the lost.

Hippophagy.

Hippophagy, being in low water in these latter days, somebody has set himself to show what an exceedingly respectable history attaches to the practice. Among the ancients, especially in China, eating horseflesh was general, and it was only killed in Europe by a papal decree of Gregory III, though why horseflesh should have been interdicted does not appear. It was only the famine caused by Napoleon's invasion that revived the practice in Germany, where it has survived ever since.—London Globe.

Not Broadened.

"They said that travel broadens a man," said the dark woman. "Well, I don't know about that," replied the light woman. "My husband has been a conductor on a trolley car for seven years and he is how thin he is!"—Youkers Statesman.

Economy.

Small Gilbert—Papa, didn't I hear you tell mamma we would have to economize? Papa—Yes, my son. Small Gilbert—Well, you might begin by getting me a pony; then I shouldn't wear out so many shoes.—Chicago News.

Law of Progress.

The law of progress is the law of sacrifice—no sacrifice, no progress. The secret of sacrifice is love. Without the self-sacrificing love of the mother life itself would disappear from the earth.—Review of Reviews.

No man is wise at all times.—Pitay the Elder.

Swindom.

"How did you enjoy the play?" "Oh, so, so. It was one of those modern dramas." "Surely, the dialogue was smart?" "Well, the husband in the play swore a great deal in the presence of his womenfolk. I suppose I should have laughed!"

Wholesome Teeth

THERE ARE A GREAT MANY THINGS I SHOULD LIKE TO TELL PEOPLE ABOUT TEETH.

Teeth are very interesting to me. No two teeth ever just alike in the world.

Same as there are no two leaves on a tree just alike.

But I can better tell you about them "to your face" than in print.

They are your best friends. Come in and talk with me about them.

J. O. BINGER TAKEN INTO COURT TODAY

Alleged Beloit Horse Thief Arraigned in Municipal Court Late This Afternoon.

Joseph O. Binger, alleged horse thief, will be arraigned in municipal court late this afternoon to face charges against him. The boy's father is in the city and George Sutherland has been engaged to defend the prisoner.

The stolen horse and buggy were brought to Janesville this morning from Fort Atkinson. Binger's father, having settled with the man satisfactorily. From Kilbourn, Binger's former home, Chief of Police Appleby received the following telegram, testifying as to Binger's good character:

Kilbourn, Wis.
Mr. Appleby,
Janesville, Wis.
This is to certify you have known J. O. Binger about one year and have trusted him to be honest and upright in his dealings; his reputation is clear in this vicinity and we know him to be an industrious boy.

(Signed)
DR. C. T. THREADEWELL,
A. S. DELL.

That Binger spent most of the forty dollars he is alleged to have received from the sale of the horse is the supposition from a statement made of amounts expended by him. It is said that the person who helped him sell the horse in Port Atkinson received five dollars, that $2.25 was paid out for food and cigars for the family with whom he spent the night there, $1.50 for livery hire; $1.75 for car fare to Kilbourn, $1.45 for a shirt, collar and necktie; $2.00 toward a ring he purchased for a young lady in Kilbourn; $3 to a Kilbourn doctor; and other amounts for candy for the young lady, a hotel bill and other miscellaneous purchases.

VIGILANT EFFORTS MADE TO FIND GIRL

New York Police Department Has Sent Out Pamphlets Describing Boy, Described as Missing Young Woman.

That the Police Department of New York City is putting forth its best efforts to locate Miss Dorothy H. C. Arnold of that city, who disappeared mysteriously after starting on a shopping tour, is shown by the fact that pamphlets, asking the local police to look for her, were received here this morning.

The paper contains three cuts of the young lady in different poses and gives a very accurate description of her. The New York authorities are covering every possible field. It is apparent, as Janesville is but a small city, comparatively, and in other and larger cities a search for the missing young woman is being made.

BACK WAS BADLY BRUISED BY FALL

Arthur Culver, Workman at Baltes Warehouse, Was Badly Injured This Morning.

Arthur Culver, an employee at the P. S. Baltes warehouse on Madison street, had his back badly bruised and may have suffered internal injuries, from a fall he received while at work in the warehouse about half past eight this morning. Culver was working on the seventh tier of cases in the warehouse and lost his balance. He struck on his left hip on the cement floor a distance of some eighteen or twenty feet below. At first he was scared that his injuries were more serious and the ambulance was called. He was taken to his home at 18 Holmes street and is reported as resting easier this afternoon.

PRICES LOWERED FOR MAXWELL CARS

Early Spring Deliveries Assured. Inquiries Are Many More Than Last Year. Season Promises to be Big One.

All over the country the Maxwell car has developed phenomenal sales proportions, following the announcement of the United States Motor Co.

Either the prices were reduced, or the equipment added on practically every Maxwell car, and this together with the warranty clause which accompanies the car at sale, has stimulated interest in this line to the limit.

The 14-horsepower Maxwell runabout is still listed at $600, but at this price are included top, gas lamps generator, and so on through the entire line.

The Maxwell car is an excellent buy for the average man, being a car of composite "stomach" and well balanced. This line of cars is handled in Janesville by Mr. E. R. Winslow. Two demonstrating models may be seen by calling at 24 N. Main St.

"IMMORTALS" OF ARTS AND LETTERS MEET IN NOTABLE MENTAL MARATHON.

Foremost exemplars of the learned profession gather at session of the American Academy of Arts and Letters and the Institute of the same name, met in the New theatre, Central Park West and Sixty-third street, and bestowed a reward of intellectual toll, a gold medal, on James Easton Rhodes, a Boston historian.

It was a notable gathering of "I. A. S." with not a "T. H. M." in sight. The venerable John Bigelow, 83 years old and hale in body and mind, was the lion of the day. Addresses on modern tendencies were made by men prominent in all branches of learned achievement. There was prepared as fine a program for this joint meeting as anyone might wish, but those who came to view and listen were few. Especially not there was the "T. H. M." the tired businessman, as Walter Damrosch called them.

SUFFRAGETTE HOSPITAL RUN BY WOMEN ONLY.

Picture of the suffragette hospital, showing the hospital ambulance in the foreground. Lower right, ladies in charge of the hospital. At left, Miss Isabel Disco, head nurse. At right, Mrs. M. A. Morgan, superintendent of the hospital.

New York, N. Y.—In Hempstead, Long Island, near New York city, there is a monument to what women can do, if they get the chance. It is a flourishing institution. In charge of Mrs. M. A. Morgan, superintendent, it is three stories high, with plenty of ground around, a wide piazza, a stucco annex, and as fine an ambulance equipment as there is in this country. It is the Hempstead hospital, financed by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, the millionaire suffragette, with a woman superintendent, women internes and women nurses, and the only men employed are the two who tend the furnace and drive the ambulance. When the hospital was first opened, last April, there were men internes, says Mrs. Morgan, but not since last September. And you have no idea of the difference. Women internes are so much more sympathetic and conscientious. This is a suffragette hospital says the superintendent, Mrs. Morgan, "though, you understand, we take men as patients. Why not? Personally, I think it would be a fine idea to gather in all the ailing anti-suffrage gentlemen the hospital would hold, and then—having tucked them securely in their little cots, address them saying: "Now, my friends, you may lie there and die of your measles or whatever, and I shall not give you one spoonful of quinine to save you until you say you believe in suffrage." Incidentally the Hempstead hospital can accommodate, at present, 44 patients; 20 in wards and 24 in private rooms. There are fifteen nurses and two internes, Dr. Clara Rosnick, and Dr. L. M. Lubin, besides Mrs. Morgan. The ambulance was originally a limousine, for which Mrs. Belmont paid $16,000, Mrs. Morgan explained. Mrs. Belmont found it was too large for her personal use, so she gave it to us. Of course, it had to be all done over as an ambulance, and this cost $16,000 more. It is very fine, now that it is finished. One of our two internes goes out on call and, if we have any reason to believe the case is serious, she takes a nurse with her. We respond to any call within a reasonable distance of the hospital and, if the patient is actually unable to pay for the service, no charge is made. Naturally, though, we wish to be sure the people are really not in a position to pay, for if we were not strict in this we would be swamped with calls. Our two internes, Dr. Rosnick and Dr. Lubin, wear white linen suits, Mrs. Morgan finished. Of course, during the winter, when they are on ambulance duty, they have to wear great coats to keep them warm.

Illinois Merchants at Rockford. Rockford, Ill., Feb. 7.—Unusually large attendance marks the convention of the Retail Merchants' association of Illinois, which opened this morning in City hall. President C. J. Hochland of the local association began the proceedings with brief remarks and was followed by Mayor Mark Jardine, who told the merchants how glad Rockford was to entertain them. President W. H. Jostling of Alton and the other state officers then made their reports. Tonight the visitors will attend a theater party and tomorrow evening they will have a banquet at the Nelson.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON.

"P" ASSAIC, N. J.—The diamond engagement ring, as a symbol of pledged faith is a symbol of inferiority, according to Dr. M. O. Kershet, a physician whose engagement to Miss Gertrude Risker has just been announced.

"At the reception where the announcement was made Dr. Kershet surprised the guests by giving Miss Risker a set of elegantly bound books by Victor Hugo, Balzac, George Bernard Shaw, Ibsen, Tolstol, Zola, and others, instead of an engagement ring."

No nuptials a newspaper item. A most interesting and intellectual departure, surely, but it seems to me that the very reason Dr. Kershet urged for his innovation is the reason that will make it unlikely to become a custom.

"This is his argument—
"In times long ago a man either captured his female partner or purchased her from her parents with presents. When she was his, he placed a crude ring upon her finger. It was regarded as a symbol of inferiority and made the wearer appear in the light of personal property. Miss Risker will not be my chattel, but my equal, my companion and helpmeet."

I am afraid that Dr. Kershet is reckoning without feminine instinct in his desire to dispose of the ring because it is the mark of possession.

For whether she admit it or not, the average woman, however clever, however intellectual, however superior to her masculine acquaintances who may be, WANTS TO BE POSSESSED. I was reading in some biography the other day—I can't seem to think just whose it was—of a woman to whom her fiance offered a choice between a diamond locket with her picture in it, and the conventional ring.

"She liked the idea of the locket very much," says the biographer, "because it would be different, but she finally chose the ring because it seemed to mark her as more peculiarly his."

For the very reason, you see, for which Dr. Kershet would condemn it. Woman wants to be pursued.

She wants to be captured.

There's no use blinking it. There's no use trying to theorize it away. Whether it's the best way for her to feel or not, that's the way she does feel.

The woman who is lonely without her drunken husband to beat her has plenty of "sisters under the skin" in all ranks of society.

No, Dr. Kershet, you may be right in your ideal, but you are miles, or rather centuries, away from actual conditions.

We may be capable of being companions and helpmeets, but I am afraid we are likely to love best the lovers who have enough of the cynicism left in them to want us to be property, too.

SUED CITY OFFICIALS.

Virginia Brooks, Charged With Libel and Slander.

Chicago, Ill.—Virginia Brooks, a reformer of West Hammond, who is alleged to have made charges of grafting against most of the officials of that place, has been arrested on a warrant charging disorderly conduct and a second warrant charging slander and disorderly conduct.

The trouble arose over oppressive taxes, which Miss Brooks states are due to wholesale grafting. Recently the village sought incorporation into a city. This, she claimed, would tend to still further increase taxes. She put up a strenuous campaign against the proposition and spoke in public meetings every night for a week. She electrified with working men and approached men on the street, urging them to cast their ballot for the village.

In spite of Miss Brooks' campaign the proposition to incorporate was carried by just thirty-six votes and now the victors are planning to discredit the girl. Martin H. Shanahan, former city clerk, has brought suit for libel in the civil courts.

Dainties for Saint Valentine's Day.

In preparing sandwiches for a Valentine party, the appropriate shape is of course, a heart. It is a good plan when serving sandwiches to have several kinds. The following are a few suggestions which may be new to some:

Sardines shredded and seasoned with chili sauce between slices of white bread. Yellow tomato preserved with ginger or lemon between white bread sandwiches. Gingerbread spread with cream cheese and thin slices of preserved ginger. Neufchatel cheese seasoned with salt, cream, paprika, Worcestershire sauce and a half cup of chopped nuts, put between slices of graham or rye bread. A delicious sweet sandwich may be made by baking a plain sponge cake in sheets, then cut with the heated cutter and put together with flavored, sweetened whipped cream.

Peaches and Oranges.

Drain the juice from a can of peaches, peel three oranges to a pint of peaches. Arrange the sections of orange alternately with the peaches, sprinkle with sugar and pour over the sweetened juice of the peaches. Serve very cold.

Delicious Salad.

Cut squares of cream cheese, lay in the bleached cup of head lettuce. Roll the cheese in chopped nuts, garnish with half a walnut meat and a few seeded white grapes. Just before serving add mayonnaise dressing.

Another nice way of serving cheese is to season cream cheese, add chopped nuts and use this mixture to stuff dates.

Nut Cookies.

Beat the yolks of two eggs until thick, add a cup of brown sugar, one cup of chopped nut meats and the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs; add six tablespoons of flour and a pinch of salt. Spread on a buttered sheet and bake in a moderate oven. Cut in squares when removing from the baking sheet.

SOMETHING MORE THAN CHECKS NEEDED.

A prominent woman said the other day that it is not enough that the rich sign checks for the poor, but that they must get out and work among them—know something of conditions at first hand.

And she is right. The person who thinks a full duty is performed towards society when checks are signed and handed over to some charitable organization or some deputy to use in ameliorating the condition of those who are at the bottom of society's scale is simply practicing self-deceit. The personal service of every man and woman who has time and opportunity is needed to lift up those who are suffering in the lowly places of earth. A man may give his check for thousands and never do one-half as much good as if he went out of his way to give personal service to the poor even if he spent far less money in helping them.

Men and women are uplifted by personal contact with those who have something in the way of example or material things to give, and even the successful and the fortunate man may be made better by his intimate knowledge of the conditions that surround the lives of the poor if he does a little of the work of relieving their wants himself.

No person can leave a home of comfort or luxury and go into the tenements and the broken down places of the city to town where men and women and little children huddle together without realizing the need of this personal contact with actual conditions and without being made better because a more thoughtful and considerate person. Through this personal contact one becomes more patient and tolerant and more sympathetic and the spirit of helpfulness has a new birth.

And after a while one comes to realize that it is not so much charity that is needed in these places as justice—the sort of justice that will make society see its duty to its whole fabric; that will make it understand that it has a duty to perform to the men, women and little children in these pitiful places of the city; that there is need of the personal touch which only the rich and influential can give in bending the sore spots, in bringing about better conditions, in seeing that the tenement house laws are improved and obeyed. Men and women who are in earnest in their desire to help others will soon learn that there is a duty to perform in securing the privileges of childhood to the little ones who make up the families of the poor; that opportunity is provided for the young people to better their own conditions and that the heavy hand of wrong is not laid upon the shoulder of any of these.

If the rich would lend their services with their money, if they would give of their abundant time in looking into conditions and doing their Christian service where it is most needed, high society would be less often afflicted with outrageous scandal and there would be less complaint of the bad example set by those who have money and position, because the chief cause of their own shortcomings—too much idle time—would be used up.

Katherine Kip

PLAIN WORDS.

Foolish, foolish person.
Why will you strut around
And deem yourself the wisest sight
Who ever walked the ground.
When, sooth, the merest trifle will Upset your dearest plan
And quickly prove that, after all,
You're nothing but a man.

Foolish, foolish person.
Why will you criticize
The weakness of another, when
A lesson is in your eyes?
Why think to hold yourself aloof
For having greater worth.
And gaze upon the lesser throng
As if you owned the earth?

Foolish, foolish person.
Debate your silly chest,
Put off your overbearing airs,
And give your friends a rest.
In every man, however great,
There's something of a clown.
Could you but know your neighbor's Thoughts.

Your pride would tumble down.

Victim of Fate.

"I saw you talking to Mrs. Featherly. She seemed excited."

"Yes; she was putting up the same old grumble."

"What's her grievance?"

"A case of bunched anniversaries. She was born the day before Christmas and married the day after—and one present answers for all three occasions."

Over Seventy.

There are three classes into which all the women past seventy, that over I know, were divided: 1. That dear old soul; 2. That old woman; 3. That old witch.

LARGE VELVET CHAPELAIN.

A woman can at least look well and elegant, even if she is not rich. A woman who is not rich, but who is elegant, is a woman who is a success. A woman who is not rich, but who is elegant, is a woman who is a success. A woman who is not rich, but who is elegant, is a woman who is a success.

HINTS TO THE WISE

Colored Nottingham Curtains Are New This Season.

THE KNACK OF LOOKING NEAT

Eiffel Tower Turbans Hobnob With Demure Shepherdess Shapes In Smart Millinery—Brims Faced With Brilliant Coloring a Becoming Contrast.

Dear Elsie—Woe is me! All my lace window curtains have taken unto themselves in the last hour of the most prodigious rents and tears—those unmanageable ones that no amount of skill can save from the power's observation. In the face of this affliction I recently mastered courage to see the new window draperies which a certain big shop here in New York makes a specialty of carrying. Now you are going to get the benefit of that morning's inspection. And that you will profit thereby is a foregone conclusion, as you have a decided penchant for a yearly change of window draperies.

The new thing in inexpensive lace curtains I found to be colored Nottingham. This drapery comes in one or two tones, such as golden tan on black and brown on pale tan. When one desires the effect of warmth without weight or to shut out light these colored Nottinghams are excellent. I immediately thought of your brown and tan dining room and how well such a drapery would look at the casement windows.

What say you, my dear? Colored curtains will be used a great deal for dining rooms, libraries, bedrooms and parlors, different styles being chosen to suit the rooms. For bedrooms I saw very nice hangings of bobbin trimmed with rambles as low as $1.50 a pair. But shiny lace is newer than the rambles. A group of four different designs struck me as being wonderfully good value for the money. The first was of not hemmed and edged with narrow shiny lace and trimmed within the hem with a broad band of shiny insertion. The second was of Irish point adorned like the shiny design, and a pair of Marie Antoinettes, really very artistic, displayed a lovely pattern in applique.

COLLAR AND CUFF SET.

The last was a handsome lace curtain with a beautiful inset within the hem of the lace on net of an excellent quality. A narrow lace edging on the hem gave a very dainty finish. All these curtains were only $5 a pair.

Colored curtains such as the hurred madras will not be much used. This fabric is always more in demand as a summer window drapery, and people prefer buying it by the yard rather than by the curtain.

But stenciled effects are awfully good curtain form. And the dearest pair for a cretonne or chintz furnished room were of the finest ivory scrim, reaching only to the sash. Down one side and across the bottom was a foot band of finest flannel, on which was applied an out-of-date design of pink roses in cretonne. Joining the flannel border to the curtain proper was an old world looking cream colored gimp, and outlining the entire curtain was an edging of the same pattern. The curtains were cheap at $12.75 a pair, but one could make them for a heap less if one didn't mind the trouble, which wouldn't be so very great, after all.

The Knack of Looking Neat. "A woman can at least look neat and tidy." This remark is about as easy to carry out oftentimes as that of the charity visitor who insisted that her slum tenants could at least use plenty of soap and water. How can the poor creatures when perhaps there is running water on only one floor of a seven story flatness and about a hundred persons to draw from the same supply? "The model tenement?" Yes, dear, but I am not speaking about them, for they are in too great a minority to serve as an example. Well, to get back to neatness, how can the average woman without a maid or a hookworm of a husband or relative make the back of her neck look tidy? In other words, how can she always be sure that the stock is making connections?

Some women, however, have the knack of always looking tidy about the neck. You have, Elsie, but I—well, I took a few lessons from Dora.

they recently and have been enlightened that one of the most convenient ways of managing the detachable collar of lace or muslin is to sew a button at the back of the neck which matches the button that fastens the collar and to make buttonholes at each lower corner of the collar. The collar by this means is held firmly without pinning. There should be a stay at the collar back and those supporters that by their bent prongs are always ready and require no sewing. The prongs, being only the size of a fine pin, do not tear the material, and the collar from much better if it has no bone casing or a stitched-in device.

In connection with neck fixings, here is a good idea for a stunning collar and cuff set. They give the smart touch to a costume that a well grounded woman always has. They are of black silk set with detachable ruffles of finely plaited white lawn. Such a set is just the thing to freshen up a passé frock, and I hope the picture will give you some idea of the picturesque possibilities of these effective accessories.

The New Millinery.

Of course you want to know about the new hats I've bought—two perfect stunners, one for best and the other for knockabout. The creation that almost depleted my pocketbook is a shepherdess shaped affair with a broad, slightly drooping brim and a huge though moderate crown. The pulled crown is of black velvet—in fact, the whole outside of the shape is of black velvet—and the trimming consists of two full fluted ostrich feathers in shaded tones of burgundy arranged in tower style effect directly in front. Under the slanting brim is an underlacing of changeable tulle silk in tones of wine red and champagne, and this rosy silk casts a very becoming glow on the face of yours truly. These feelings are the smart note of the season's millinery and are put in either curled, plain or shirred.

My all round hat is a turban almost as high as the celebrated Eiffel tower or the Singer building here in New York, which is more than forty stories high, so you can be sure that the turban is a skyscraper. It is covered with smart brown serge. Please lift over from your suit? No, madam; serge, cashmere and wool materials this winter go into the fashioning of hats. The deep brim faced with black velvet turns sharply back on the high crown. Straps of black in tones of deep cream, eel blue and black pass across the top of the crown and are caught down over the velvet brim with an ornament of braid.

Now, farewell, a long farewell, to you and the faddists. Devotedly yours, MABEL.

Practical Slide.

Postmistress—Then you like those town pieces to send you those new-fangled souvenir postal cards made out of leather?

Uncle Weatherby—By heck, yes! I ain't so much on sentimental eyards, but when they are made out of leather they come in handy to mend boots with.

Want Pink Cheeks—Red LIPS?

Some unfortunate men and women are pined to wonder why some of their friends are bloomed with an abundance of color—pink cheeks and red lips—while they are always colorless. The reason for this is blood circulation. There is not enough red blood corpuscles in the blood—under a microscope the blood is thin and watery. The body is chilly, too. Well known physicians assert that the Hygienic Inductance for several months of three-grain hygienic tablets will greatly improve the color, add to the weight, and in general be very beneficial. For self-administration, obtain from any of the best apothecaries.

THE MODERN HEAD DRESS

Causes Baldness—We Cannot Change the Head Dress, But We Can Prevent Baldness.

Up to the time we began to civilize him a bald headed Indian was a thing unknown. Wearing nothing on his head except the covering furnished by nature and being a stranger to the use of a hair brush, especially the public and the scalp and hair had plenty of ventilation, much sunlight and, hence,

a condition favorable to a luxuriant growth of hair existed at all times.

It was the adoption of air and light excluding head gears and artificial head decorations generally, together with the occasional use of a community hair brush, which gave the dandruff germ its opportunity. Since this parasite has multiplied to an alarming degree until now there is hardly a person who is not troubled more or less with dandruff and falling

Many, to be sure, have passed the worrying stage. Having become chron-
